

A Solid Uranium Project Base

Uranium International Corporation is an uranium mining exploration company headquartered in London, England with a portfolio of projects located in the south-western United States. The Company launched in 2007 and entered into lease acquisitions on an initial group of historical uranium properties in the prolific Grants Pass, New Mexico region through joint-venture agreements with Strathmore Minerals, a ten-year developer of uranium assets.

Project Summary

- Uranium International Corp. has agreed to acquire a 65% interest in the Nose Rock Property in the area known as Mine Unit #1, in the State of New Mexico mineral lease Section 36. The Nose Rock Properties were acquired by Phillips Uranium (Phillips Petroleum Company) in the early 1970s, who controlled the properties until the mid 1980s. Phillips Uranium drilled in excess of 1,500 exploration holes on the Nose Rock properties, sank 3 shafts, and spent in excess of $180MM developing the uranium resource.

- Uranium International Corp. has signed a letter of intent to acquire the Dalton Pass property consisting of 1320 acres controlled by federal lode mining claims and lies between the Church Rock and Crownpoint uranium districts of the western Grants Mineral Belt. The main Dalton Pass Property (Section 32, 17N 13W) was explored by Pathfinder Mines during the 1970s. There, Pathfinder drilled in excess of 135 exploratory bore holes, for a total exceeding 270,000 feet of combined exploration.

Current Projects

Uranium International Corp. was founded by a visionary group of managers and long-time uranium mining industry professionals who identified the serious shortfall of skilled uranium mining exploration companies. Its focus is on acquiring significant uranium assets, while rapidly advancing its lead projects into production.
